Tehran reports US releases $8 billion of Iran's assets

Iranian government spokesman Mohammad-Baqer Nobakht reported Monday night that the US had released $8 bn of Iran's frozen assets the day after six world powers reached a nuclear deal with Iran in Geneva.

Jerusalem, Riyadh stunned: Obama makes Iran 7th world power on regional issues, including Palestinians debkafile exclusive: President Barack Obama and Secretary of State John Kerry have secretly consented to elevate Iran to the status of seventh world power, for signing the interim nuclear accord in Geneva on Nov. 24, living up to its obligations in the coming six months and then signing a comprehensive agreement. While demanding respect as a regional power, never in its wildest dreams did Tehran expect big power standing with a recognized authoritative role in the wider Middle East, including the Palestinian issue. Jerusalem and Riyadh are aghast.

Tehran: White house is lying about nuclear accord details

In the first major crisis of confidence, the Iranian foreign ministry Spokeswoman Marziyeh Afkham Wednesday rejected the White House version of the nuclear deal agreed in Geneva four days ago, and accused Washington of releasing a "fact sheet that is a one-sided version of the agreed text" to "mislead the American public." This version, said Tehran, was "invalid."

Washington to stop wrangling with Israel, instead offer "embrace" with benefits, some military

President Barack Obama and Secretary of State John Kerry have decided to end the row with the Netanyahu government over the interim nuclear accord signed with Iran Sunday, Nov. 24 in Geneva, debkafile reports. This is partly to gain the prime minister's cooperation for bringing the peace process with the Palestinians to a resolution. On this they are set. Instead of hitting back at Binyamin Netanyahu, Washington is lining up a package of benefits, including upgrade for the Israeli Air Force. More about this in the next DEBKA Weekly.

Two US B-52 bombers fly over disputed East China Sea area

Pentagon spokesman Col. Steven Warren said: "Last night we conducted a training exercise that was long-planned. It involved two aircraft flying from Guam and returning to Guam." No flight plan was submitted beforehand to China. The two aircraft spent "less than an hour" in China's unilaterally-declared Air Defense Identification Zone (ADIZ) and did not encounter Chinese planes, he said. The move represented a robust show of US support for Japan, which has a longstanding defense treaty with its American ally.
